THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

IT is a natural impulse born in every woman to have the surroundings of her daily life as attractive as her means will allow.

Ever since the world began, from the earliest established homes of mankind, this has been demonstrated by the evidences found in the excavations and explorations of the homes of the pre-historic period. Often very crude, but still showing the desire for the decoration of the home. As civilization progressed and people became more settled in their place of abode, this expression took decided form in a more established way.

Draperies have always been used. Before men built homes, they made draperies for their tents. The Arabs, Turks and also the American Indians draped the door-ways of their movable and temporary homes with crude fabrics made in colors and designs, which to them were beautiful, or gave expression to the thought of that period; and so it followed down to that time, when the beauty of the home was given more attention than any other subject.

The arts of weaving, painting, sculpture and carving all were the result of this love of beautiful surroundings. We have all of this in mind when offering to the collector of S. & H. stamps, many articles of decoration; consisting of portieres, couch covers and table covers. These are illustrated in this book, bringing to the housewife the home decorations with no extra expense. She can beautify her home without going to any extra expenditure, and thus gratify her desire for luxuries of this character, without depriving herself of any of the regular necessities of either table or dress.

We call your attention to illustrations on Page 27, No. 7378 portiere, a one-book decoration made in quiet shades of green, wine and tan color. The Persian border portiere No. 7376, a two-book article is in splendid good taste, the body of the curtain is either green, red or brown and can be used for parlors, drawing rooms or hallways. No. 7377, also a two-book article, is a mercerized curtain with a silk finished effect, has a beautiful over-drape heavily fringed. Besides these we have a variety of hangings, up to four-book values; including No. 7374 and No. 7375. The character of design and coloring of these draperies for doors are absolutely correct from a decorative point of view and are properly used, wherever needed, both for decorative and utility purposes.

Now we come to couch covers. This brings to mind the homes of the Orient. There is no article of decoration more used or more needed in the average home. In the living room, over the couch, either to save the couch or to cover the one originally used when too much worn, or in the bedroom which has to be used as a living room, couch covers are the most useful and beautiful decoration. We call your attention of illustrations Page 29. Nos. 7390 and 7391 are given for one book. Nos. 7392, 7393 and 7394 are given for two books each. These are all made in proper colorings for the rooms in which they may be used.

The dining room, or perhaps the living room, has a highly polished table to save which a table cover is necessary. Or the table may have already been marred, and thus the cover is used either as a decoration or as a necessity. Our offerings in these household decorations are various. Those we call attention to, are Nos. 7387, 7388 and 7389 given for one book and Nos. 7385 and 7386 given for two books. All of these table covers are made in Oriental effects.

When deciding on the use you wish to make of your collection of S. & H. Stamps, do not overlook the fact that the greatest pleasure one can give to their family and their friends is to provide them with the most pleasant surroundings possible.

KINDLY INSPECT ILLUSTRATIONS IN THIS CATALOGUE OF

JAPANESE BAMBOO FURNITURE

Matting Covered Shirt Waist Boxes
Copper Trimmed Cedar Chests

Bamboo Furniture—The merit of Bamboo Furniture is universally known as light in weight but strong in construction. Every piece made for the S. & H. Co. reflects the very latest designs and is constructed in the United States by the most modern machinery and is made of imported Japanese Bamboo. Articles can be selected and matched up to furnish the most up-to-date room. It is dainty, cool-looking furniture for city homes, country or seaside cottages, and for the porch it is quite the ideal thing.

Matting-Covered Shirtwaist Boxes—These articles were regarded as novelties years ago, now no household seems to be complete without them. They are not only articles of luxury, but of necessity, and for their convenience as receptacles for all kinds of wearing apparel they are unequalled. Only the finest grade of 220 warp Japanese Matting is used for the covering of Bamboo Furniture and Shirtwaist Boxes and they chime in with any furniture, making a room look cozy.

Cedar Chests—The Cedar tree has been celebrated from the most ancient times. The wood is close-grained, naturally red, and has a delicate and very agreeable fragrance—the more knots it contains the more fragrant the odor. Its odor, while agreeable to human beings, has a deadly effect upon all insects. Tennessee Red Cedar is a preserver of the family's winter apparel during the summer. Our grandmothers used the "Old Cedar Chest" which was handed down from generations.

The above statement is from the highest authority on Cedar as it is taken from the United States Department of Agriculture (Forestry Division). All Cedar Chests carried by the S. & H. Co. are made of the finest grade of Solid Tennessee Red Mountain Cedar—guaranteed to be air-tight, dust and damp-proof. A large bag of Cedar Shavings is furnished with each Chest.

Every housewife will select one of our Cedar Chests, Shirtwaist Boxes or Sewing Tables the minute she lays eyes on it.
